Global markets went in for some consolidation being hopeful of negotiations on tariff front. This came after some reports hinted at relieving certain duties on auto sector by the US. However, separate reports also said that the US Commerce department has been initiating trade related probes on pharma and semi-conductor sectors. This may signal further tariff related developments. On macro front, NY Fed inflation expectation index firmed up. In UK, shop price index signalled recovery in retail sales. In China, exports growth picked up to a sharp double-digit pace of 12.4% (est.: 4.6%), on account of frontloading of shipments surrounding the tariff turmoil. On monetary policy front, ECB official hinted at cautious data dependent approach. BoJ official also spoke of staying put amidst financial market volatility. On domestic front, inflation data will be the key watchable where some respite is expected.

- Global markets ended higher as US administration announced exemptions on tariffs on certain electronic products, supporting a rally in tech stocks. US President also hinted at a softer stance on auto tariffs. Stocks in Hong Kong rose the most. FTSE also posted robust gains as UK's retail sales rose more than expected. Sensex is trading higher today, in line with other Asian indices.

- US 10Y yield fell at the sharpest pace weighed down by risk off sentiments. Recent macro data points (consumer credit, ISM data and core capital goods orders of the region) still suggest underlying weakness. Even Fed official hinted at rate cut. In India, 10Y yield is likely to have a softening bias this week, as well, supported by favourable inflation print. It is trading at 6.41% today.
