Global market digested mixed news of upbeat US consumer confidence, corporate earnings and subdued home sales data. On domestic front, RBI governor warned of the possibility of the next financial crisis coming in from private cryptocurrencies and noted the need of strict prohibition. Recently, FTX one of the largest cryptocurrency exchange had also collapsed. Aluminium prices inched up and are likely to remain elevated in short term amidst news of Indonesia (major exporter) considering bauxite ban. Market will monitor Indonesia's rate decision today.

- Global indices ended mixed. Nikkei continued to trade in losses for the 2nd straight day after BoJ's policy tweak. US indices registered strong gains on the back of improvement in consumer confidence (8-month high in Dec'22). On the other hand, Sensex ended in red with India's VIX jumping by 13% as fears of Covid-19 cases resurfaced. Power and oil & gas stocks suffered the most. However, it is trading higher today while other Asian stocks are trading mixed.

- Global currencies fell across board, with GBP (-0.8%) and JPY (-0.6%) depreciating the most. DXY rose by 0.2%. JPY witnessed some correction and was also moved by thin liquidity during the holiday season. GBP reacted to data on government borrowings in Nov'22. INR too fell by 0.1%, as crude prices inched further up. However, it is trading higher today, while other Asian currencies are trading mixed.

- Global yields closed mixed. While 10Y yields rose the most in Japan and Germany, they were down in US in and UK. Japan's 10Y yield was up by another 7bps, reacting to BoJ's change in yield target, while investors in Germany are cautious over amount of public spending required in CY23. On the other hand, higher government borrowings in the UK and dip in existing home sales in the US, have raised alarm bells in these economies. Investors are hoping for an early pause by Fed in CY23. India's yield fell by 1bps, but is trading a tad higher at 7.30% today.
