Global stocks were mostly higher as China relaxed Covid-19 curbs in Beijing, thus easing supply-chain concerns. US 10Y yield rose further to 3.04%, as investors await CPI print. US CPI is expected to have inched up to 0.7% in May'22 versus 0.3% in Apr'22, on a MoM basis. This along with tight labour market conditions in the US, is likely to prompt US Fed to continue with its aggressive rate hike cycle. In the UK, Prime Minister Boris Johnson won the confidence vote. As a result, FTSE and GBP gained and 10Y yield edged up. In India, investors await RBI policy decision.

- Global equity indices ended mixed. Investors monitored relaxation in Covid-19 related curbs in China, weakness in yen (20-year low), key central bank decisions (RBA, ECB, RBI) and movement in US 10Y yield. Hang Seng rose the most, followed by Shanghai Comp and FTSE. Sensex ended lower by 0.2% led by losses in consumer durables and capital goods stocks. It is trading further lower today; while other Asian stocks are trading higher.

- Major global currencies closed mixed. DXY rose by 0.3% as US 10Y yield shot up to above 3% mark for the first time in two-weeks. On the other hand, JPY fell sharply by 0.8% as BoJ Governor reaffirmed the bank's ultra-dovish stance. GBP rose by 0.4% as UK's PM won the confidence vote. INR closed flat. However it is trading lower today; in line with other Asian currencies.

- Global yields closed higher. US 10Y yield rose the most by 11bps crossing the 3% mark, seen during mid of May'22. Tighter labour market data supported the view of a faster pace of rate hike by US Fed. Even UK and Germany's 10Y yield rose by 9bps and 5bps respectively. Investors are awaiting major central banks policy decisions in terms of rate hike and ending of bond support program.

India's 10Y yield rose by 4bps (7.5%) ahead of RBI policy. It is trading further higher at 7.52% today.

- Crude prices moderated slightly by 0.2% to US$ 120/bbl as gasoline and distillate stockpiles in the US are likely to increase, according to the Reuters poll report. However, it is likely to inch up as Saudi Arabia raised the Jul'22 official selling price (OSP). Gold prices fell by 0.5% as dollar strengthened.
