Potential capital raise entails high dilution – cut to SELL

DCB Bank's (DCBB) board today passed a resolution to raise equity capital of up to Rs 5bn. If executed, this would imply high dilution of ~22%. The fund raising will bolster tier-1 capital by ~170bps and raise the bank's ability to absorb loan losses, but would also reduce our FY21E book value by ~5% and further dampen ROE. The stock has rallied ~25% in the last 13 trading sessions which we believe is unwarranted given persistent concerns over asset quality and profitability – cut from ADD to SELL with an unchanged Mar'21 TP of Rs 65.

Approval to raise funds up to Rs 5bn: DCBB's board has approved an enabling resolution to raise funds up to Rs 5bn. This could be via issue of equity shares or other securities convertible into equity shares through QIP, subject to shareholder and other approvals.

Fund raising to be highly dilutive: A capital raise up to the full approved limit of Rs 5bn would imply ~22% dilution at the current stock price, which is high in our view. Our FY21 BVPS estimate would decline by ~5% given that dilution will occur below book value, weighing further on already-muted ROE estimates. On the positive side, the tier-1 ratio would improve by ~170bps. DCBB's ability to absorb loan losses will also increase, thus strengthening its balance sheet.

Downgrade to SELL: The 25% rally in DCBB's stock price (vs. ~18% for Bank Nifty) in the last 13 trading sessions following its Q4FY20 results looks unwarranted as we believe the bank's exposure to the high-risk LAP/self-employed segment would call for high provisioning in FY21. This apart, the proposed capital raise would be book value dilutive and a drag on ROE. Downgrade to SELL with an unchanged Mar'21 TP of Rs 65.

Valuation methodology

We continue to value DCBB at 0.6x FY22E P/BV using the two-stage Gordon Growth Model. Given persistent concerns over asset quality and profitability, we find the recent 25% rally in stock price unjustified – downgrade from ADD to SELL with an unchanged Mar'21 target price of Rs 65.

FIG 2 – RELATIVE STOCK PERFORMANCE

Key risks

- A pick-up in economic growth may ease asset stress and drive below-estimated SME slippages.
- If branch addition picks up pace, we could see improvement in the bank's liability franchise.
- Above-expected loan growth, margin improvement and better operating leverage can drive higher profitability.
