FY23 growth estimated at 7%

SUMMARY
INDIA ECONOMICS: MONTHLY CHARTBOOK

With global growth slowing (US housing sector/PMIs, China production/retail sales, Eurozone PMIs), domestic growth is also giving mixed signals. While headline PMIs (manufacturing and services) improved in Dec'22, electricity demand, auto sales, tractor sales, property sales volume, states' revenue tax collections are pointing towards marginal slowdown. Going ahead, with inflation coming down, RBI is expected to pause soon, which will help growth in the near-term. Markets also await presentation of the Union Budget, wherein fiscal glide path and market borrowing data will be critical.

INDIA ECONOMICS: GDP

NSO has estimated that Indian economy is expected to clock a growth of 7% in FY23 growth from 8.7% in FY22. GVA growth is also estimated lower at 6.7% (previously 8.1%). Manufacturing continues to paint a disappointing picture as has been evident by expectation of much lower growth in FY23. Construction sector too is expected to grow at slower pace than was anticipated. Even as the domestic economy batters global headwinds emerging from weakness in global economy, aggressive monetary conditions, India remains a 'bright spot' amongst its global counterparts. The attention will now shift towards Union Budget in order to kickstart investment cycle and boost spending.

All eyes on the Union Budget

With global growth slowing (US housing sector/PMIs, China production/retail sales, Eurozone PMIs), domestic growth is also giving mixed signals. While headline PMIs (manufacturing and services) improved in Dec'22, electricity demand, auto sales, tractor sales, property sales volume, states' revenue tax collections are pointing towards marginal slowdown. Going ahead, with inflation coming down, RBI is expected to pause soon, which will help growth in the near-term. Markets also await presentation of the Union Budget, wherein fiscal glide path and market borrowing data will be critical.

Mixed reading: Consumption demand alluded to mixed signals in Q3FY23, post the ending of festive period. RBI's consumer confidence for Nov'22 had signalled that the economy continues to remain on recovery path, with improved outlook for future. In Nov-Dec'22, moderation in electricity demand and slowdown in auto sales added to disappointment. However, steady pace of improvement in digital payments, non-oil-non-gold and electronic imports offered some support. On agriculture front, tractor sales has moderated while Rabi sowing continues to show robustness (higher compared with last year).

Centre on spending spree: Centre's fiscal deficit (% of GDP, 12MMA basis), rose further to 7.1% as of Nov'22 from 6.9% as of Oct'22, as spending continues to maintain momentum. Total expenditure was up by 17.7% as of Nov'22 (FYTD basis), compared with 17.4% growth seen as of Oct'22. This was supported by 63.4% increase in capex (+61.5% as of Oct'22) and 10.8% rise in revenue spending (+10.2% as of Oct'22). On the other hand, revenue growth moderated slightly, with gross tax revenues rising by 15.5% as of Nov'22 versus 18% as of Oct'22. Within this, both direct (23.9% versus 25.9%) and indirect tax collections eased (8.5% versus 11%). Within direct taxes, corporate tax receipts slowed more than income tax. While in case of indirect taxes, union excise duty collections acted a drag. Receipts from disinvestment still remains lacklustre. We expect overall spending to remain high going forward (capex is at 59.6% of BE and revenue expenditure is at 62.5%) in order to order meet budgetary targets. We expect 0.2-0.3bps slip in fiscal deficit target in FY23.

India's 10Y yield inched up in CY22: In line with major global yields, India's 10Y yield rose sharply in CY22. It went up by 87bps, while 10Y yields in Germany, UK and US firmed up by 317bps, 252bps and 217bps respectively. Record high inflation, hawkish policy by major central banks contributed towards the same. In domestic market even liquidity dynamics changed dramatically. From a surplus of Rs 6.3 lakh crore in CY21, average system liquidity surplus dropped to Rs 3.1 lakh crore in CY22. Going forward the upcoming borrowing calendar of the centre and the fiscal deficit will shed light on how yields would play out. Further, if the softening of inflation continues, it would also comfort yields. In Dec'22 as well, we expect headline CPI to moderate to 5.7%.

INR to remain rangebound: INR depreciated by 1.6% in Dec'22, reversing the gains it made in Nov'22. For the year, INR was 10.1% lower. A combination of adverse global as well as domestic factors kept INR under pressure in CY22. However, with a major part of Fed rate hikes been behind us and expectations of rate cuts by the Fed in the later part of the year, the dollar rally is expected to have stalled. Further, global commodity prices especially oil have moderated led by concerns over weak growth. This is also positive for INR. We foresee INR in the range of 81-83/$ this year.

FY23 growth estimated at 7%

NSO has estimated that Indian economy is expected to clock a growth of 7% in FY23 growth from 8.7% in FY22. GVA growth is also estimated lower at 6.7% (previously 8.1%). Manufacturing continues to paint a disappointing picture as has been evident by expectation of much lower growth in FY23. Jahnvi Prabhakar
Economist1st Advance Estimate of FY23 GDP

GDP growth for FY23 has been estimated at 7% against an increase of 8.7% in FY22 on a YoY basis. This was marginally higher than our expectation of 6.8%. The moderation is owing to investment demand slipping down to 11.5% from 15.8% in FY22. The dip will also be visible in private consumption which expected to drop down to 7.7% in FY23 (from 7.7% in FY22). Growth in both exports and imports also likely to take a back seat with growth easing down to 12.3% (previously 24.5% in FY22) and 20.9% (earlier 35.5%) respectively in FY23. Valuables too is expected to drag growth lower. The only bright spot has been growth in government expenditure which edged up 3.1% in FY23 from 2.6% in FY22.

GVA to be dragged down

GVA growth is expected to moderate down to 6.7% in FY23 compared with a growth of 8.1% in FY22. Growth in manufacturing sector continues to remain a pain point with growth slipping down to 1.6% against an increase of 9.9% in FY22, the same has been reflected by industrial production. Mining sector too is expected to clock single digit growth of 2.4% compared with double digit growth of 11.6% registered in FY22. Within services, trade, transport and hotel are likely to grow at a steady pace (13.7% vs 11.1%) signalling robust demand from the tourism and hospitality industry. Even financial services is expected to register a robust growth of 6.4% in FY23 (4.2% in FY22). Agriculture sector continues to shine brightly with growth likely to inch up to 3.5% in FY23 (3% in FY22) on the back of normal monsoon and likelihood of pick up in rabi sowing. Electricity sector also pegged to record higher growth of 9% in FY23 compared with 7.5% in FY22

Outlook for FY23

Amidst the concerns surrounding global economic slowdown in FY23, coupled with weakness expected in more than half of the world (as per IMF) and the threat of uncertainty surrounding geopolitical conflict growing large, Indian economy is likely to do much better than the global counterpart on the back of strong fundamentals.
